Bread and Vegetarian Status

We are aware of recent reports suggesting that bread produced in the UK is not suitable for UK vegetarians due to the use of enzymes in the baking process that are derived from animals.

Premier Foods does not use enzymes of animal origin in the production of bread.

All bread produced by Premier Foods is clearly labelled and complies with the EU legislation on labelling. When a Premier Foods bread product is labelled as suitable for vegetarians it meets all the requirements of the FSA guidance on labelling foods as vegetarian.

Alcohol is not used as an ingredient in any of our Hovis products either.

Premier Foods has strictly adhered to policy on the use of genetically modified ingredients. We recognise that our consumers have concerns about the acceptability of ingredients containing GMOs and as a result Premier Foods does not procure GM raw materials or ingredients containing GMOs for use in any of its products.
